

Essay Writing Services Companies- What Really University Can Do About It? Absolute Nothing!

We go into class and it's literally this flower this flyer paper ology or whatever is on the seat of each desk these posters are up everywhere here at the University of Toronto as well as on campuses at schools right across the country and they offer exactly what they say you can buy your assignments and your essays cheap and fast it's an organization that sells you your completed homework all for a price it's called contract cheating when a student gets a third party to do their academic work often for a fee this service is illegal in some countries including New Zealand but here in Canada schools have to rely on the honesty of students because websites like this technically breaking the law let's say 200 bucks for an essay seven pages you get it within 24 hours I would I personally wouldn't do it especially at University because tuition is so expensive that I feel like yeah like here is getting kicked out one example is a homework dot CA they offer assignments for twenty-five dollars per page with a premium for rush service they promise fast turnaround time even on last-minute orders saying that you will not get in trouble your school will not find out you will not be caught so we decided to try this out ourselves.

We have a real assignment that's due next week from Humber College it's a five-page essay that needs to be handed in on problems with the criminal justice system specifically social issues when it comes to Canada's firearms policy. Hence, we decided to log in and buy an essay our essay has to be written in APA style they ask for the assignment type, and it is an essay this asks for a minimum of six empirical sources. I pressed paid one hundred and sixty-five dollars and was promised an original article all without ever picking up the phone. I ordered that real essay writing service orderessay.net yesterday afternoon at about 12:30 and this morning just before 8 o'clock my completed homework arrived coming up the big problems with this essay and the new technology that's being developed to try to stomp out this cheating the poster pretty much says it all by your assignments and essays cheap and fast it's blatantly being advertised at University and college campuses right across Canada some students even tell us that they've seen these types of posters inside of their classrooms one in three college professors say that they have received work that they believe a student has gotten a third party to write but they don't have enough evidence to do anything about it according to websites like a homework dot CA the people behind these papers for purchase are PhDs and graduate students many looking for new cash different research studies have said that somewhere between two and seven per cent of students have admitted to doing this and that's only the students. Who have fest up according to John Paul Fox the director of Ryerson's integrity office he says it's tough to detect these essays for hire but there are often telltale signs sometimes the piece of work that's produced it's not exactly what's been asked for as part of the assignment so that's problematic done as well and that's often how these things are discovered, and that's exactly what happened with my purchased essay a couple of problems first off its not quite five pages it's only four and a half. More importantly, it's not on the topic. I asked for my ghostwriter chose to do an essay on cannabis retail instead of on Canadian firearms like.

I requested Ryerson Humber Seneca, and U of T all are aware of these websites and tell City news that all third party papers could lead to a reduced mark or even expulsion some apps check for originality like turnitin.com they're now developing technology that will detect significant differences in a student's writing style in between papers to help them find this do you know anyone who's used anything like this before no I don't see no one has used it and I know I wouldn't use it why not just because I would not feel morally right about it. I'm paying to be here to do my work and get my degree so I can't have to do it myself Ryerson tells us that their staff and some frustrated students often rip down these types of posters when they see them plastered all around campus that brand new technology that will help websites detect this type of cheating is expected to be released sometime in the second half of this year at the University of Toronto campus.
